2011-2012 Water Supply Update

Yesterday, the official allocation for south-of-Delta CVP agricultural water service contractors was increased from 75 percent to 80 percent. Reclamation's announcement included the following information.

The allocation is based on the April 1, 2011, California Department of Water Resources' (DWR) snow survey and analysis of unimpaired runoff.

Reclamation uses the 90-percent exceedence model for official allocation purposes, which means that in 9 out of 10 years, more favorable conditions are expected to occur. A 50-percent exceedence model is also provided for informational and planning purposes. This year, the water supply available to contractors in the two forecasts is identical.
